

Judson College has been helping young women lead purposeful lives for 175 years.

By providing every young woman with opportunities to engage her mind through challenging academic programs and practice her faith through meaningful co-curricular activities, Judson prepares each student to live her purpose as she discerns her vocational call, gains the knowledge and skills necessary for professional success, and builds her self-confidence and self-awareness in a close-knit, Christ-centered community.

A Judson education prepares women to serve and to lead.

Recognized by the Washington Monthly for our commitment to the "greater good," we believe that each of our students has the potential and responsibility to positively impact our world.
